

During this time of unprecedented medical uncertainty, I - like you - face family and business unknowns and challenges. During crisis, our natural response is to freeze or flee in a state of anxiety and to distance, blame and attack.

While we need to have some physical distancing given the COVID-19, how might each of us - as leaders in our families and businesses - find creative ways to CONNECT soulfully and compassionately with others?

offer encouragement, assistance and kindness?

transform these uncertainties into creative opportunities for growth and serving others personally and through our businesses?

As advised by the Montgomery County emergency response, we are cancelling our March 20 Breakfast Forum. Thank you for your understanding. I will keep you informed about plans for future programs.

I leave you with an edited version of some thoughts sent by a friend:

As families come together, may it bring neighbors and communities together in intended peaceful assembly ...

Gratitude is stronger than any pandemic of fear.

In knowing it is so, may all patterns, characters, and agendas of scarcity, victimhood, fear, abuse, survival mode, greed, and corruption be cleared out of my energy field, returned to the Source of its origin, transmuted completely, and healed to completion now."
